The New Adventure of J. Rufus Wallingford

Read It Here Now-Then See It in Moving Pictures

VII.

Dingleville awoke to the fact that it had, in the person of J. Putus Wallingford a new citizen of great value. For instance, look at Harry Pushman's business—a little, one-horse factory doing rothing at all. Wallingford came glong, and new Pushman was working to capacity and was shipping goods as fast as the railroad could handle them making money hands over fists.

Some business men, too, Wallingford:

Take the matter of that lawsuit, for instance. This fellow by the name of Daw tried to sting him, ddn't he? Came allong with a contract glying him the exclusive sale of Pushman's egg beaters. Wanted to collect commissions on all the goods Pushman had sold to those big New York jobbers, Paul Polict & Co. You bet Wallingford showed up this Daw person, all right! Showed that Daw hadn't sold a dollar's worth of goods, not a dollar's worth while, in less than a month, Pushman had made shipments to his big jobber amounting to over $20,000 dollars! But, say, would you ever believe there was a long pause, in which he cheated me out of my commission and didn't he tell the people of this town that, if he was to be hambered in any way after he'd /built up the looks of a well-conducted manufactive for the post of the following paint. Why, the Pushman factory had cleared over $11,000 since Wallingford had backed it! Two-thirds, Wallingford's share wa kum was not only desperately ill but he was frantic!

Preparedness on the part of England as well as Germany caused the present European war said Dr. John Metz, of the American Peace Society, who with Mrs. Louis F. Post, wife of the Assistant Secretary of Labor, addressed any appliancement as meeting and appliancements. G. W. Slookum sat at his back door. The apples were picked, and there was nothing to watch; but he sat there and watched it.
"There's a stranger, paw." It was Mrs. Slookum, but not even her voice was meek In the past two weeks she had been aggravated to the point of rebellion. VIII. the Assistant Secretary of Labor, addressed an anii-preparedness meeting at the Public Library last night.

In reply to a question from one of the audience Mrs. Post said that she did not believe President Wilson was as much responsible for the present sentiment for preparedness as some others she could name.

"Most of us do not know just what the President's position is," said Mrs. Post, "but we are looking to him and hoping that he is holding us back from a greater amount of preparedness. Though a danger may be run in being unprepared for war, this country will run a greater risk from increased armament."

Mumbling and grumbling, G. W. went into the horse-hair room, and the stranger proved to be none other than Horace G. Daw, who, with his head bent and his hands clasped behind his black Prince Albert, was stalking diagonally across the room.

sir," said Horace G. Daw, "I am a che abused man!" and he deliberately at the ends of his spiked mustached inserted it between his teeth Un-hunh!" agreed Slookum, and he need.

"I am the victim of injustice!" ranted Mr. Daw, tousling his black hair down over his forehead. "I am bent on revenge! Revenge, Mr. Slookum! Revenge on that scoundrel, J. Rufus Wallingford!"

"Un-hunh!" agreed Skokum. But there was more animation in his tone. "Have you, or have you not, two mortgage-notes against the Pushman Kitchen Utensil Company, each for $1,000 and interest?"

Mr. Slookum studied by them.

"Listen!" Blackle Daw stopped and held one hand aloft. "I wish to purchase those notes."

Again, long and deliberate thought on the part of Mr. Slookum.

"Why?" he asked.

"Why?" seel me the notes if I tell

Will you sell me the notes if I tell

"Well, maybe."

"Well, maybe."

"Then here it is, Those notes are in the name of Pushman Kitchen Utensil of the United States yesterday filed a motion to advance for argument the into the Pushman Kitchen Utensil Company, now incorporated. Since the pany, now incorporated. Since the original company does not exist, it cannot take up those notes, and you can not take up those notes, and you can food law.

The question involved is whether the Police Court of the District is a "proper or court" in the meaning of the pure food law.

HELP WANTED—FEMALE

HELP WANTED—FEMALE time as that company might be in tem-porary difficulties. Then, by thunder, I can make trouble with then."
"That's dang nonsense," crackled Slookum. "You don't know the law, or you wouldn't think up a scheme like that. I tried it once."

It was Blackie Daw's time to pause.

and he did it most creatfailen'y.
"You're cocksure I can't do that?"
"As sure as gospel!"
"Then, there's only one other way!"
Blackie now sat down, with his hands on his knees and his neck bolt upright. "I'll have to buy enough stock listener, cocked his head sideways at How much money would that take?" "Fifty-one thousand dollars or more."

Blackie's reply was prompt and sharp.
"The company's incorporated for a nundred thousand, and Fushman has the sale of the stock. They're anapping it up like hot cakes around town today, because the company, in my suit against them, showed a profit, even on a hundred thousand dollars capitalization, of over 150 per cent a year!"

G. W. Slookum gulped, and a spasm of pain twitched at all his wrinkles.
"Yes: I figured that out myself." he "Well, Pushman don't like Walling-

"I'll simply get Pushman to sell me 51 per cent of that stock, as soon as my money gets here next week. Then I'll call a meeting and vote Wallingford out
